

Haiku

26 May 2014

For our 20th anniversary, my wife and I spent a few days in Chicago. We stayed at the Swissotel next to the Chicago River and near the lakefront. Very nice. I wrote these haiku after the first day there.

It Glows 1

We are in our room.
Outside the ferris wheel glows.
Inside, my wife glows.

Scary Places 1

So why did I wait?
My head is a scary place.
Dont go there alone.

It Glows 2

Walking the streets late.
Seeing the millions of lights.
Chicago at night.

Scary Places 2

Are cities scary?
Maybe for an Iowan
Who then miss a lot.

Big Cities

I love big cities.
Vibrant yet melancholy.
Alone with people.

Gratitude

Happy times dont last.
I sink into depression.
It wont last either.
